WHEELER AGAIN.

The editor of the Quincy Herald is the man who sought after martyrdom that the year 1881 has developed. Not satisfied with the notoriety obtained through his villainous abuse of the late president while a sympathetic world was anxiously watching by his bedside, this human hyena follows the dead beyond the portals of the tomb, and gloats over the vindictive imaginings of his deposed heart. On Wednesday this paragraph appeared in the editorial column of the paper that acknowledges Wheeler as its editor:

We stand by the record. James A. Garfield was a bad man living and he is a bad man dead. He has been sent to his account. Let him answer for his crimes as best he may. As God reigns we believe that HIS SOUL WAS SHOT INTO HELL by an assassin's bullet. If this is not so, then there is no taint in crime, and sin is the badge of honor.

But over and above and infinitely greater than all this—is to saint Mr. Garfield and send him to heaven, is to put a deep and damning brand of infamy upon the whole Democratic party. If Garfield was not a bad man, as charged by the Democratic party last year, then is that party one compact mass of lying scoundrels, unfit even for the lowest depths of hell.

We stand like an honest man by that record. No villain assassin's bullet can wipe it out; death can not change a line of it. That black record will stand against James A. Garfield until his name rests from the memory of man.

The people of Quincy—no matter what their political preferences may be—owe it to themselves to rid their city of the foul presence of this fiend in human shape. If they are content to bestow upon him the favor of their patronage they must not wonder if a discriminating world holds them morally responsible. It is the boast of our civilization that all men are permitted to speak their sentiments without fear of molestation, but there is such a thing as giving expression to sentiments that outrage and shock every human sensibility, and when any man persistently and maliciously vomits his slime upon the public, it is but meet and proper that his victims should use the only legitimate means to protect themselves from insult—despite him of the opportunity to circulate his filth. Wheeler impudently attempts to fasten his views upon the Democratic party, and asserts that he only proclaims what the party believes. If the Democrats of Quincy and Adams county continue to recognize Wheeler as the editor of their party organ the country will believe that his boasting is not without foundation. They can only relieve themselves of the imputation put upon them by Wheeler by publicly repudiating his sentiments, and they fully understand in what way they can do this most effectively.

HOW THE FRENCH MANAGE.

When we Americans are bothering about "family help" it is aggravating to think how much better they manage these things in Paris. A correspondent who has been studying up these points writes as follows:

Imagine the convenience of having a nice, tidy woman coming up to your room early in the morning, say eight o'clock, cooking your breakfast and then doing all your chamber-work, sweeping, dusting, and leaving you in perfect order for the day by 10 o'clock, just two hours, and all this for the modest cost of ten cents. Their charges are actually but five cents an hour. A great many quite well-to-do families live in this way, having the female de ménage two hours three times a day to prepare their meals and do the necessary housework. For those who do not care to take their early breakfast at home there are the neatest little places, called crêmeries, where you can get a bowl of coffee or chocolate and a roll for four or five cents. These little establishments, in addition to their early breakfast trade, sell fresh butter and eggs, milk and cream, cheese and fruit. It is surprising what a small quantity of provisions you can buy in Paris. For example, who would dare in New York to ask for two cents' worth of butter? Here it is a matter of course, and the fresh, clean-looking girl, always wearing a white apron and cap, serves you across a snowy white marble counter, and cuts the exact quantity with a wire, never making a mistake, as you will see when it is weighed. Among other conveniences for those who do not want to cook at home are the charcuterie shops, at which are sold cold ham, tongue, veal and delicious gelatine, a sort of boned chicken and turkey, all kinds of sausages, and even sardines at retail, two for a cent. These are all sold by the small quantity.

A slice of ham for 5 cents is enough for several sandwiches. Again at the Rôtisserie you can buy roast chicken just out of the oven, whole or by the piece, a leg or wing or a slice of breast. All kinds of game or meat are to be had already roasted, or cooked to order, and sent home at any specified hour. It is an immense convenience, and a great saving in fuel. There are also to be seen little stalls where fried potatoes and small fish are sold hot, every day from 11 to 2 o'clock, when you will meet strings of girls and men in their blouses hurrying off with a brown paper bag steaming in their hands 2 or 3 cents' worth being enough for a meal, even for a hungry man.

Speaking of fuel, I must tell you of a little contrivance I discovered which is invaluable, and certainly the cheapest cooking apparatus ever invented. It is a tiny stove of sheet-iron, hardly larger than a quart measure. It costs about 25 cents. The material burned in it is a sort of very fine charcoal called briquettes which is bought at the baker's. It is the residue of the baker's fuel, and it is sold very cheaply—a cent worth being enough to last a whole week. The fire in this little stove is enough to make tea and coffee, and to boil eggs, or even to broil beef or chops. It makes no dirt, and it is exceedingly easy to light a fire.

A Confederate Millionaire.

From the Vickburg Herald.

Since the rise in Confederate bonds a millionaire has been discovered near Birmingham, Ala. He lives two miles from the town, and has supported himself for years by cutting and hauling wood to the Birmingham market. There seems to be something lucky in this wood. We all remember how Grant, in the days before the unpleasantness, hauled wood to St. Louis. Now he is great and has more money than he knows how to spend. Our Birmingham friend claims that he will cease to cord wood now, as he had the sense when they were plentiful to cord away six or eight cords of Confederate bonds. He says his house will be a little breezy, as he papered it with Confederate securities, and he will have to remove the papering to realize, but he will try and stand it till he can build a brown stone front.

Argument in the Star Route Cases.

THE BROKEN BANK.

WASHINGTON, D. C., Nov. 3.—The Criminal Court room was this morning the scene of a notable gathering incidental to the preliminary argument in the famous star route cases. This argument was the one postponed on Monday by reason of the failure of the prosecuting officers to appear. It was upon motion to quash the information against T. J. Brady for conspiracy. The District bar was out in full force and the array of distinguished counsel in the case excited general attention. District Attorney Col. Corkhill, Col. Wm. A. Cook, Col. George Bliss and Mr. Brewster, the eminent Philadelphia lawyer, represented the prosecution, and Col. Enoch Totten, Judge Jerry Wilson, Col. Bob Ingersoll, Mr. Jeff Chandler, of St. Louis, Judge Shellaberger and J. Hale Sypher represented the defense.

Gen. Thomas Brady and J. L. French were the only parties involved who were present. Detective Gibson shared the attention of the crowd which gathered without the rail.

Voorhees' career as a reformed tariff man has been brilliant but brief. A man who undertakes the job of wiping out the Democratic record for a quarter of a century is more to be admired for his audacity than for his intelligence.

Voorhees saw that free trade was not a success as a party issue, so he changed his convictions at once and attempted to perform the same job for his whole party. He has probably discovered by this time that he undertook too much.

Hendricks is a wiser man than Voorhees, and should give him a little favorable advice in this trying emergency.

Voorhees has never run for the Presidency before, and he makes the mistake of all beginners in being too unanimous.

Hendricks had great experience. He has been a Presidential candidate in advance once in four years since 1856.

He has always stopped running when the National Convention met, but he has come up fresh and lively for a new trip each time about half a year after the new President has been inaugurated.

His experience is therefore valuable, and he should inject some of it into Voorhees. His first recommendation could be relied upon to be something like this: "Never, my dear Daniel, absolutely never, allow yourself to collide with a fact." Stradie's

1. There was no authority here for proceeding by information.

2. Such a proceeding was arbitrary and an outrage upon the liberty of the citizens.

3. That the information was not sustained by a particle of evidence or even by affidavit setting forth the facts which it was expected to establish.

The argument will probably last several days, and the result is looked forward to with great interest. In case the information is sustained it is thought the other case will be brought in the same way. If quashed, they will go to the grand jury and indictments will be found in the regular way. In the latter event, it is confidently predicted by the friends of the star route people that this particular case against Brady will fail because of limitation.

The pension office matter at St. Louis was settled to-day by the appointment of Nathaniel A. Adams, of Kansas, in place of the incumbent Senator Ingalls is of the opinion that the next move will be the removal of the office itself to Topeka.

It is on the cards here that ex-Speaker Sharpe, of New York, is to receive a fat Federal place for his fidelity to the Stalwart cause in the New York legislature. His declination of a renomination to the Assembly is probably the only ground for this rumor.

The position is very awkward for Mr. MacVeagh. Much as he may desire to withdraw from the Arthur cabinet, he cannot do so now without challenging the common suspicion that he has not that confidence in the strength of these star-route cases that has been commonly professed in government circles, while there will be many of those who are always ready to attribute the worst motives to all official conduct who will see in his rejection of President Arthur's overture a political purpose to embarrass the administration in its effort to complete for this rumor.

Last night Bartley Campbell's highly successful romantic drama, "My Geraldine," was presented for the second time in Decatur at the opera house before a fair audience. The play was given by a fine company, whose acting won well-merited applause. It was a story of life in Ireland, in which was shown the power of the landlords' heartless agents, coupled with the devilish and reckless deeds of an unprincipled scoundrel, who wrecked the peace and quiet of two proud Irish families. He was finally outwitted in his high-handed game. The grand transformation scene in the fourth act was the quickest and prettiest change ever attempted in Decatur by any company, and the desired effect was almost perfect. The rains of the Grey Nun Abbey, the cliffs of Coogha Dhuall, with the lake and moonlight in the distance, was the picture. This new and beautiful scenery the company shows in every city on the route, and without it the play could be less effective.

MARRIED.—At St. John's Episcopal church at 9 p.m., Thursday, Nov. 3, 1881, by Rev. W. H. Moore, Mr. ORLANDO C. STRAWFORD and Miss ANNIE, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Henry S. Evans, of this city.

The ceremony was performed in the presence of about 30 relatives and friends, and Mr. J. D. Turner placed the hand of the bride in that of the groom. After the marriage the company repaired to the residence of Mr. Turner, near by, where a wedding repast was served, and at 12 o'clock Mr. and Mrs. Huntley departed for Chicago, over the Wabash. They will be absent several days and on their return will be given a formal reception at their residence on East Prairie street.

MARRIED.—Thursday evening, Nov. 3, 1881, at the residence of the parents of the bride, by the Rev. W. H. Presley, Mr. ORLANDO C. STRAWFORD and Miss ANNIE, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Henry S. Evans, of this city.

The cards for this wedding had been out for about ten days, but owing to illness in the family the wedding was very quiet, only the relatives and a few friends being present. After congratulations and supper, Mr. and Mrs. Stratford repaired to their new home on South Water street, which had been furnished throughout by the groom, who is the engineer at B. Z. Taylor's Linseed Oil Works, on East Mainstreet. The Republicans extends its heartfelt congratulations to the wedded pair.

Below is a list of gifts:

Parlor lamp, Mr. and Mrs. George Ferguson; silver casket, Harvey Evans, Chicago; check for $25, B. Z. Taylor; card receiver and奔腾者, Mr. and Mrs. Nester; mantel set, Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Wolfgang; celery glass, Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Wolfgang; basket, Mr. and Mrs. Henry S. Evans; silver knives, Mr. and Mrs. Harry Snarr; damask napkins, Miss Sophie Evans; vases, Mrs. and Mrs. L. H. Bellington; silver tray, Mrs. and Mrs. C. Williams; pieces, H. L. Stratford and wife; clock, Will Stratford; bedspread, Miss Ella Stratford; lamp, Grace Stratford; brackets and vase, Daisy and Ham Stratford.

We find the following paragraph in the Standard of Nov. 3, published at Chicago:

"A very pleasant duty was performed last Thursday evening, by Rev. F. G. Thorpe, in speaking the words that united in marriage his son, Harry B. Thorpe, (book-keeper at the depository), to Miss Nettie J., daughter of Ish Smith, of Englewood. A household of guests witnessed the ceremony, and in their congratulations we most heartily join." The many Decatur friends of Rev. Mr. Thorpe and family will wish "Harry" and his bride much joy and prosperity.

Good Scholars.

In the 5th grade, 3d ward, who have been neither absent nor tardy for the month of October: Harry Hamsher, Herbert Ellridge, Ned Urissay, Jessi Wiswall, Arthur Kayor, Frank Pahmeyer, Tommie McWhinney, James Young, Edgar Jack, John Rogers, Willis Martin, Frank Lytle, Eugene Converse, Byrd Davis, Ulysses Michl, Morton Williams, Josie Keene, Helice Houseman, Vicie Wallace, Lydia Mueller, Gertrude Ragan, Annie Rainey, Emma Stromb, Jessie Steele, Grace Baldwin, and Josee Gasaway.

The Funeral.

That is what the show at the opera house next Tuesday night will be, and those who go will be certain to leave the hall convulsed with laughter. Sold the Dramatic News.

Sam'l of Posen has unmistakably made a hit at Alverno's Fourteenth Street Theatre. The business went up steadily from the first night. On Friday and Saturday evenings people were drawn away from the doors, unable to gain admission. We have never seen a funnier picture on the stage than the character which Mr. Curtis here presents. He certainly fulfills his mission of keeping everybody in a roar whenever he is before the audience.

Newly Notes from Body.

Our pleasant village has increased in population, two more families having located here last month. Business is splendid. Corn is just 50 cents. E. Kaltenbach has purchased D. Barber's farm for $3,250; a nice figure. Mr. Beale's dwelling house is about completed. It contains 18 rooms, and is covered with an iron roof; the finest building in this vicinity.

The German Sunday school will have a Christmas tree this year. J. Streeter is singing master in that church, and will teach singing once a week from now on. Young folks are all invited to take part and learn quick. Wm. Tiggers has returned from Iowa. He prefers to live at Boddy. James Hopkins now lives on Water street, at Boddy, and will open a restaurant at that place. J. Pistorius will build a new barn next season; and H. Deacon has purchased a new top buggy.

A Farmer.

Monticello Bulletin: Hon. S. R. Reed met with rather a bad accident at Lovington on Wednesday of last week. He was at the water tank getting his little girl a drink; the engine had left the car, and the engineer in running his engine back lost control of it and it struck the car with such force that it threw Mr. Reed over three or four seats bruising his face considerably. His little girl was hurt but little.
